Welcome to the London School of Commerce. We are one of the largest and most internationally respected private higher education provider in the United Kingdom. The company has achieved national and international success through its enterprise and strong values-based decision making.

Located in a prime position in London, a minute walk from The Shard and the London Bridge Train Station, the campus was once the location where Shakespeare frequented and until today draws tourists and visitors.

London School of Commerce (LSC) has more than 10,000 students in its London and overseas campuses. Our flagship MBA program has captured the imagination of many and our 30,000 plus alumni would testify to the high quality of education and support provided.

Established in 1999, the school has flourished as a center of excellence in learning and teaching, attracting students from more than 130 countries.

Our 11-member Advisory Board provides the guidance that has enabled the school to achieve academic excellence and sound governance. This Board is a diverse group of high profile corporate and government leaders who have collectively spent decades on the architecture of a number of premier public and private institutions.

LSC is one of a few private institutions that has the coveted Highly Trusted Sponsor (HTS) status and is also accredited by the Accreditation Services for International Schools (ASIC).

It has successfully gone through a number of university audits and validation processes, and was commended by the Quality Assurance Agency for Higher Education (QAA).

With a history of excellent academic and administrative practices coupled with sound regulatory compliance record, the institution can obtain degree awarding powers in the United Kingdom. It is a deliberate strategy of the Group to achieve this in the next two years, which will see exponential growth in international and domestic student numbers.

LSC also owns and operates the St Piran's School in Cornwall, highly reputed for its happy and nurturing environment for students from nursery level to year 11. The School has gained popularity in the community as a high quality provider of lower primary and secondary education. With strong stewardship, the School continues to grow and provide a good foundation for its students to enter tertiary education.

Recently we opened our Malta campus with the opening ceremony being officiated by the Prime Minister. Our engagement at the highest level of government, both locally and internationally, has placed us in a position of strength in the countries we operate in.

Our holistic approach to education and nurturing the minds of the young includes providing access to sports and a strong initiative towards corporate social responsibility.

LSC's prowess in the sporting field culminated in the cricket team being crowned champions in the regional British University and Colleges Sports League in 2012 and 2013.

We also support and encourage a sense of community through our charity, COPTÉ – Combating Poverty through Education. COPTÉ funds educational projects in various countries and aims to provide a high quality education to children with otherwise limited opportunities.

We foresee great growth and development for LSC in 2018 and beyond, and will continue to drive forward our mission of providing quality-focused and cost-effective programmes to students all over the world. I look forward to welcoming you to the college soon!

LSC wholly owns and operates the St Piran's School in Cornwall, highly reputed for its happy and nurturing environment for students from nursery level to year 11. The School is a co-educational day school which aims to provide an environment where pupils can develop their individual potential as learners with high personal standards.

Its success is underpinned by the use of a broad curriculum, access to a wide range of extra-curricular activities, and the good quality of teaching when the pupils' individual needs are carefully considered. With strong stewardship, the School continues to grow and provide a good foundation for its students to enter tertiary education.

COPTE, the LSC Group's charitable foundation was registered officially with the Charities Commission in September 2011 and follows the simple ethos: "... to support the education of children who find themselves in the state of destitution or poverty... and who would benefit from financial support in order that this poverty cycle may be broken."

All the supported projects are currently overseas and the work started in the various countries has been brought to the attention of COPTE by both LSC staff and students. These include:

- Maw Sevana Boys' Home in Colombo, Sri Lanka
- Morning Star School for Deaf and Hearing Impaired Children in Bamenda, Cameroon
- Nyumbani Home and Village in Kitui, Kenya

However, these children's projects were already receiving generous donations from the LSC prior to the formalisation of COPTE in 2011. Many young people worldwide have benefitted from the philanthropic support and commitment generated by the Andradi family.

As a result of COPTE, youngsters in Sri Lanka, Bangladesh and Cameroon who would not otherwise have had the chance to enter higher education or vocational training have been sponsored by ongoing support and scholarships. At the same time school extensions have been built in the form of extra classrooms and library facilities in Kenya, Cameroon and Sri Lanka.
